VOL. 4. NO. 126. PRICE FIVE CENTS

KEW MEN AT WORK

TOTAL OF 134 STRIKE BREAKERS AT THE MISSOURI PACIFIC SHOPS.

ANOTHER BATCH CAME IN SUNDAY

Mr. W. L. Tracy, Assistant Superintendent of Machinery, Says They Are Good Mechanics, Not a "Cobbler" Among 'Em.

The Missouri Pacific brought in its fifth batch of strike breakers Sunday to take the places of the machinists who walked out on May 2 because the company refused to increase their wages from 36 to 40 cents an hour.

The men had declined to compromise on 39 cents an hour, for the alleged reason that a proposed change in the shop rules would work to their detriment to a much greater extent than the wage increase of three cents an hour.

This latter is denied by the company officials, who say that the changes proposed would have affected only a few men.

They further assert that the machinists on the M., K. & T. and Frisco systems accepted the 39 cents proposition, and that in insisting on a further increase of one cent an hour the Missouri Pacific machinists were unreasonable.

The total number of strike breakers at work this morning as machinists was 134, as against 136 who walked out on May 2. This latter is outside of the helpers and apprentices, which swelled the total number of strikers to something like 200.

W. L. Tracy, of St. Louis, assistant superintendent of machinery for the Missouri Pacific, is here assisting Master Mechanic McGraw, and in speaking with a Democrat-Sentinel reporter regarding the situation expressed himself as being perfectly satisfied. Mr. Tracy said:

"In the new men we have a good class of mechanics. There is not a 'cobbler' among them. They will be retained, as the company has no settlement to make with the strikers. They quit of their own accord, and have no one but themselves to blame because other mechanics have taken the places they vacated."

The shop grounds are guarded day and night, and the strike breakers eat and sleep in the shop buildings, bunks having been fitted up for them in the painting department for sleeping quarters. Scores of people paid a visit to the shop grounds Sunday, but were not permitted to get a glimpse of, much less converse with, the new men.

Supt. Tracy was warm in his praise of Sheriff Henderson, who has kept order at the shop grounds since the new men were put to work. Some of the strikers have made efforts to see the new men in an endeavor to persuade them to quit work, but the guards on duty have not permitted them to get within speaking distance.

There has been no trouble of any kind since the new men were put to work and none is anticipated. How long the guards will be kept on duty is problematical, but it is quite likely they will not be dispensed with for some time.

A number of the men who struck have left the city and gone elsewhere in search of employment, but those still here who have not secured other employment are paid a strike benefit of $3 a week by the national organization.

Beginning today, the shop doors were opened to new apprentices, and Master Mechanic McGraw stated to the Democrat-Sentinel that any boy who applied to learn the trade and was accepted would be protected by the company and could rest assured that he would be retained until he had finished his apprenticeship, and as long afterward as he cared to remain.

All trains that have brought strike breakers from St. Louis have been stopped at the Marshall avenue crossing, opposite the shop grounds, and the men were marched direct from the train to the shop buildings.

A new foreman came in Sunday afternoon on Missouri Pacific train No. 8 from the west. The train was stopped at Marshall avenue, when the recruit alighted and was met by Messrs. Tracy and McGraw, who accompanied him to the office of the latter gentleman.

Duvenick Pitching at Warsaw.

Sam Duvenick, the baseball pitcher, left this morning for Warsaw, where, this afternoon, he is to assist the Warsaw team to defeat the Housonia aggregation. Mr. Duvenick has received a good offer from the California, Mo., team, and unless Sedalia gets busy and organizes a team at once Duvenick intends to accept.

Frank DeBolt Much Better.

Frank DeBolt, the caterer, who has been a patient at Maywood hospital for several days with malarial fever, is convalescing nicely, and will probably be taken home this evening or tomorrow morning.

ASKED GIRL TO DIE

HAROLD VARNEY, OF BOONVILLE, MO., PROPOSED SUICIDE PACT TO HER.

WAS NOT PLEASED WITH THE IDEA

Then the Young Man Took His Own Life in Front of Her Home in Kansas City—Body to Boonville for Burial.

The body of Harold Varney, who committed suicide Friday afternoon in front of his sweetheart's home, 2012 Jefferson street, by drinking carbolic acid, was removed to his home in Boonville, Mo., Saturday morning, says Sunday's Kansas City Journal.

The boy's father, Dr. J. C. Varney, was in the city, but declined to discuss the tragedy further than to say that a love affair was at the bottom of it and that Harold had been in Kansas City for some time. A post-mortem held at the general hospital failed to disclose what kind of a drug it was Varney used.

Miss Stella Back, with whom Varney had been infatuated, said last night that he often had spoken to her of a suicide pact. No later than last Tuesday, she said, he had broached the subject to her, telling her that he did not care to live without her and preferred that they be buried in the same grave.

"I cared for him a great deal," Miss Back continued. "We had known each other before he was married. I did not love him, then, however. That came later. He was always very jealous of me. Recently when he was accompanying me home he became excited because I told him it would be impossible for me to elope with him, and slashed me across the waist with a knife."

SURPRISED ON SUNDAY

Mrs. Frank Rippey on the Occasion of Birthday Anniversary.

Mrs. Frank Rippey, of East Fifteenth street, was very agreeably surprised on returning home from "down town" Sunday afternoon when she found a legion of friends assembled at her residence, the occasion being her thirty-ninth birthday anniversary.

Mr. Harry Sheets, John Rippey and Miss Dovie Strole furnished music, and later refreshments of ice cream, cake and fruit salad were served.

About 6:30 p. m. all left for home, wishing Mrs. Rippey many more happy birthdays. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Strole, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas, Mr. and Mrs. Sheets, Mr. and Mrs. Barrett, Miss Laura Thomas, Mr. E. C. Rippey, Miss Dovie Strole, Mr. E. F. Rippey, Mr. Harry Sheets, John Rippey, Herbert Barrett, Misses Edna and Edith Barrett, Bessie Rippey, Mr. George Rippey, Master Irving Rippey and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rippey.

UNVEILING AT TIPTON

Boonville Lodge Erects Monument to Capt. Hornbeck.

The monument erected in the Masonic cemetery in Tipton by camp No. 40, M. W. A., of Boonville, to the memory of the late Capt. A. Hornbeck, was unveiled at Tipton Sunday under the auspices of that order, followed by an address by W. F. Johnson, of Boonville, who paid a tribute to the life of the deceased.

The unveiling was attended by hundreds of persons from Montauk and adjoining counties.

13 STAB WOUNDS

D. A. GRAMMAR, OF THE "PALACE OF SWEETS," BADLY HURT ON SUNDAY.

STABBED BY MYER MOSKOVITZ

Injured Man Will Recover Unless Blood Poisoning Sets In—Patient Being Cared for at Maywood Hospital.

D. A. Grammar, proprietor of Grammar's Palace of Sweets, 418 South Ohio avenue, was seriously stabbed in the back thirteen times by Myer Moskovitz, a 19-year-old clerk, employed by the management of the Busy Bee Ice Cream parlors, in the later place of business, 214 South Ohio avenue, at 1:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon.

The wounds were inflicted evidently with a small pen knife. Each wound was from one-half to three-fourths inch deep, and none penetrated the lungs. Mr. Grammar immediately after the stabbing walked to Maywood hospital, where he was given attention by the staff surgeons. He was assigned to a ward of the institution and is resting nicely there today, although if blood poisoning develops the wounds may prove fatal.

Moskovitz, who was promptly discharged by the Busy Bee management, was arrested some twenty minutes after the affray by Fred Robertson and J. H. Bower, patrolmen. He was taken to the city jail and searched, but the weapon with which he did the work could not be found.

He was committed to a cell awaiting the results of his victim's wounds. Today Prosecuting Attorney H. D. Dow filed information against Grammar's assailant, charging felonious assault, a penitentiary offense if proven.

There are several versions of the origin of the affray. From the authorities it is learned that Grammar was passing the Busy Bee parlors when Moskovitz saluted him with this remark, "Hello, Dago."

Grammar is said to have entered the place to request Moskovitz to forget the remark, when the two engaged in an argument. The words grew more heated, and suddenly the two clinched.

Moskovitz held a penknife in his hand, and while the two were wrestling he inflicted thirteen stab wounds in Grammar's back, extending from the shoulder to the waist.

Julius Dresser, one of the proprietors of the Busy Bee, in conversation with a Democrat-Sentinel reporter this morning, said he intended to bring suit against the Globe-Democrat for an article, appearing in the first page of today's paper, stating that he (Dresser) was in jail in Sedalia charged with doing the stabbing.

Mr. Dresser is in no way connected with the affray, and was not even at the place of business when it occurred. He regretted the occurrence very much, and could not understand how the local correspondent of the Globe-Democrat got his name substituted for that of Moskovitz.

Moskovitz was released on a bond of $1500 this afternoon.

ARE WED FORTY-SIX YEARS

Mr. and Mrs. John W. Menefee, Sr., Surprised By Friends.

Mr. and Mrs. John W. Menefee, sr., who are celebrating the forty-sixth anniversary of their marriage, as chronicled in Sunday's Democrat-Sentinel, were surprised by more than seventy-five friends at their West Broadway residence Saturday night.

The guests met at the home of a friend in the neighborhood, and at the allotted hour proceeded to the Menefee residence, where until a late hour they amused themselves in relating pleasant reminiscences of the past.

Grote to Succeed Mullen.

boy. The father does what he can, but has no steady employment, and Major Beck reports that the family is in need of the actual necessities of life.

Donned New Uniforms.

Mayor Mellor's blue coats have donned their new uniforms, the handwork of Albert T. Loewer, and now, without exception, are eligible to enter any beauty contest that may be held in this neck of woods in the near future.

New regulation caps are a part of the layout, but Officer John Bower thinks they should have been provided with "ear muffs," as there is no telling when we will have a blizzard as long as the newspapers are daily filled with Halley's comet rot.

AGED BRIDE ANGRY

FOUND YOUNG HUSBAND WITH ANOTHER WOMAN, HENCE SEEKS DIVORCE.

E PL AINTIFF IS 81 YEARS OLD

Defendant Only One-Half That Age—Was in the Habit of Visiting the Race Track With Sporty Women.

Louisville, Ky., May 30.—Depositions filed in the circuit court show anything but connubial bliss attended the marriage of eighty-year-old Mrs. W. K. Maxon-Smith, a wealthy and socially prominent widow, to U. Garland Baumgardner, 40 years old, an employee of a dairy-lunch restaurant, a few months ago.

The couple went to Jacksonville, Fla., for the winter, and stopped at the Windsor hotel.

One of the depositions filed was that of a chambermaid employed at that hotel, and was taken in connection with a suit for divorce which the thrice-married woman has filed, alleging cruelty and infidelity.

The maid testified that Baumgardner treated his wife very cruelly, and that on one occasion he scolded her in violent language for going through the hall in a kimono, and told her that if he caught her with it on again he would cut it off.

The deposition alleges that Baumgardner frequented the race track with "sporty looking women," and that he seldom was with his wife.

In Louisville Mrs. Baumgardner, assisted by private detectives, went into a room where Baumgardner and a woman were, and immediately after filed suit for divorce.

HOME FROM CONVENTION

J. D. Murphy and Family Returned From St. Louis.

Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Murphy and son, Paul, returned this morning from St. Louis, where they attended the tenth biennial convention of the Catholic Knights and Ladies of America, Mr. Murphy representing Branch 158 of this city.

Over 200 delegates, representing more than two-thirds of the states in the union, were present.

By unanimous consent, a few changes were made in the constitution for the good of the order.

The financial standing of the order was reported good, the mortality rate low, and the outlook for an increased membership better than ever before.

The age at initiation, under the new law, ranges from 16 to 50 years, while the rate is from $250 to $2,000. Both sexes entering on equal footing.

The per capita tax was increased eight and one-third cents per month.

A motion was carried that state organizers be employed who will have supervision over state deputies.

By unanimous vote the organization affiliated with the Catholic Federation society.

The following officers were elected for the Supreme council: Spiritual adviser, Rev. Father Moran, Jesuit missionary of Memphis, Tenn.; president, Frank P. Leonard, St. Louis; vice president, C. H. Marr, Wyandotte, Mich.; secretary, Henry F. Hayes, Chicago; treasurer, Mrs. Julia O'Keefe, St. Louis; medical director, Dr. M. T. Collins, Sedalia; trustee, John C. Bauer, Detroit, Mich.

Mr. Murphy was favored at the convention by being made a member of the committee on dispensation and charter.

THE OLD SOLDIERS

MEMORIAL DAY WAS APPROPRIATELY OBSERVED IN SEDALIA TODAY.

MANY BUSINESS HOUSES CLOSED

At Crown Hill Cemetery the Rev. Harold Cooper, Pastor of the First Congregational Church, Was Orator of the Day.

Memorial day was appropriately observed in Sedalia today, despite the fact that rain fell, and as a result there was a smaller attendance than usual at Crown Hill cemetery.

Many of the business houses of the city were closed and the Stars and Stripes floated from a number of mercantile establishments and private residences.

The program printed in the Democrat-Sentinel Sunday was carried out at the cemetery this afternoon, under the auspices of the G. A. R. and the W. R. C.

Following the exercises as above, the Rev. Harold Cooper, pastor of the First Congregational church of this city, made the memorial address, a short outline of which follows:

Three words express the progress of our nation, made under the Stars and Stripes. And three great wars have given to us these three great words. Under Washington the soldiers of the Revolution gave to the commonwealth the word Liberty. Then the boys of the '60s gave the word Union, and finally the young men of the present generation gave to us the word Expansion. Liberty without Union would be powerless, and Expansion without Union would be impossible.

"As I view these silent graves and note the lines of sadness on the faces of those who mourn loved ones, three thoughts come to my mind, which I wish to convey to the members of the Grand Army of the Republic, the Woman's Relief corps and those within the sound of my voice.

"The first one (and all three relate to the war) is the spirit with which they went into the war. What do I mean? Over on the Mediterranean, in a small mountainous country a boy was born whose motto in life seemed to be expressed in the words, 'I am ready.' That boy, Paul, became the great apostle to the Gentiles. That spirit characterizes the spirit of the men who responded to the call of duty in the days of Lincoln. Ready to suffer! Ready to endure hardship! Ready to face homesickness and pain and hunger and cold, and sorrow of every kind. More even than that—ready to face the appalling fire from the guns of the enemy, when the soldier knew he was sorely needed by the little ones at home.

Then came the spirit with which they came out of the war. The spirit of forgetfulness, not cherishing hatred, but standing together, north and south, under the flag, a union inseparable, now and forever.

My second thought is the homes from which you came. The eagle is our emblem, but should there come a time when a new one is needed I would suggest that we take the old log cabin for our emblem. The homes from which you came are suggested by the log cabin—times of poverty homes that could hardly spare you. Read the annals of glory. Study your history. Note how many men have come from the log cabin who have played a large place in American life. Andrew Jackson, William Henry Harrison, Daniel Webster and Abraham Lincoln.

"But speaking of the homes from which you came, I must speak of the heroic sacrifices of those noble women who were left behind. They played their part and played it well. All the heroes of the war did not wear blue; some of them wore calico dresses, and stayed at home, teaching the little children how to help the name of papa, and to secure the necessities of life from God knows where.

The last thought which comes is the land for which they died. A land flowing with milk and honey! A land of plenty! We cannot boast of crown jewels, like the English king, but we can boast of the crown jewels of childhood, who are enjoying the blessings for which you suffered."

As the Democrat-Sentinel goes to press Rev. Cooper is still speaking, and is giving a picture of the soldier as he went into the war.

The Family Is Destitute.

Major William Beck, who has personally investigated the case, informs the Democrat-Sentinel that the family of Samuel T. Jerrell, living at 320 East Howard street, is destitute and in need of assistance. A son, 13 years old, was frightfully burned several days ago, and his mother also sustained severe burns in rescuing the Dan Dean's Foot Mashed.

Dan Dean, a brick contractor, while with several others engaged in lifting a piece of iron at the ice plant this morning, dropped one end of the iron on his foot, badly mashing the member. He was treated by Dr. E. A. Wood and was sent to his home.

BODY OF A CHILD

REMAINS OF LITTLE ALMA KELLNER DISCOVERED IN BASEMENT OF SCHOOL.

DISAPPEARED LAST DECEMBER

At that Time It Was Thought She Had Been Abducted for Reward.—No Trace Ever Found Until Now.

Louisville, Ky., May 30.—A body which has been identified as that of Alma Kellner, the eight-year-old daughter of Fred L. Kellner, who disappeared from home last December, was found in the sub-basement of St. John's Catholic school here this morning.

The condition of the corpse indicated that it had been in the cellar several months. The police believe the child was murdered.

The body was found wrapped in a piece of carpet, save one limb, which was found in another part of the basement. Investigation showed that an attempt to bury the body had been made.

When the child disappeared it was thought she was taken for a reward, but no trace of her was ever found until the body was discovered this morning.

HOUSTONIA HOTEL BURNS

Caught Fire From a Defective Flue Early This Morning.

The Houstonia Hotel, a two-story frame structure owned by Mrs. Jennie Boyles, caught fire from a defective flue at 3 o'clock this morning and was entirely consumed, together with nearly all of the contents.

The total loss is about $2,000, with $1,300 insurance.

It is thought a larger hostelry will be rebuilt on the present site.

A GREAT SCHOOL RECORD

It Was Made by Mary Elizabeth Boyle, Aged 13 Years.

Miss Mary Elizabeth Boyle, the 13-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Boyle, of 1101 East Tenth street, who was graduated from Summit school last week, has made an enviable reputation during her eight years' school work.

Miss Boyle during all those years has not been tardy a single time, and since leaving room No. 1 has not missed an hour at school. While in room No. 1 she was absent one-half day, owing to scarlet fever in the family.

BROKE INTO A GROCERY

Store of Sharp & Hicks Burglarized Saturday Night.

The grocery store of Sharp & Hicks, Twentieth street and Grand avenue, was broken into some time Saturday night and these articles stolen:

Four pairs of overalls.
Six shirts.
Ten pounds of chewing tobacco.
Five sacks of tobacco.
Five briar pipes.
A bank book.

Entrance was gained by breaking the glass in the front door, after which the robbers unlocked the door. The police have a slight clew, which may lead to an arrest.

California Defeated Eldon.

The California, Mo., baseball team, strengthened by Duvenick, Owens and several other Sedalia players, defeated the Eldon team at California Sunday, the score being 8 to 2.

TODAY IN HISTORY

TO GEN. JOHN A. LOGAN, DECEASED, BELONGS THE HONOR OF MEMORIAL DAY.

HE ISSUED GENERAL ORDER NO. 11

It Was on May 5, 1868, as Commander-in-Chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, That the Day Was Set Apart.

To General John A. Logan belongs the honor of designating a certain day on which the Grand Army of the Republic should observe the beautiful ceremony of decorating the graves of departed comrades with the flowers of spring.

On May 5, 1868, as commander-in-chief of the G. A. R., issued General Order No. 11, setting apart May 30 for the purpose of strewing with flowers the graves of comrades who died in the defense of their country.

"All that the consecrated wealth and taste of the nation can add to their adornment and security is but a fitting tribute to the memory of her slain defenders," Logan said.

At the national encampment held at Washington, May 11, 1870, the observance of the day was made an annual event, and at the encampment held in 1882 a resolution was adopted to the effect that the proper designation of May 30 is "Memorial day."

Although not a national holiday, it has been made a legal holiday in most of the northern states. In Kansas there is a law forbidding circuses, baseball and other games on this day. Throughout the south Memorial day is observed on April 26, on which occasion the graves of the Confederate dead are strewn with flowers. Alabama was the first state to celebrate Memorial day, April 26, 1866. New York was the first state to declare May 30 as a legal holiday.

The custom of decorating the graves of fallen heroes originated with the women of the south during the rebellion. With impartial pity and tenderness they wove wreaths for the tombs of friend and foe alike.

Shortly after the close of the war, Mrs. John A. Logan was in Richmond, when one of these memorial services was being held and was greatly impressed with the beauty of the ceremony.

Upon her return home she became enthusiastic to have such a day celebrated in the north. The result was General Logan's order to the G. A. R.

And so today, the veterans with slow and measured tramp, march to the dim gates of the dead to lay once more the wreath of flowers on fallen comrade's graves. Each year their step is slower; each year their ranks are thinner grown. But a few more decoration days and the last old soldier will have answered the roll of the war drummer and joined that silent army whose white tents gleam on the bank of the river that flows by the throne of God.

DEATH CAME SUDDENLY

Prominent Johnson County Farmer Died This Morning.

Andrew Miller, a prominent stock-raiser living one mile north of Knobnoster, while driving hogs to that town this morning, was taken violently ill.

He was taken in a wagon to the office of Dr. Charles, where he died immediately, death being assigned to heart failure.

Mr. Miller was a widower, 68 years old, and leaves two daughters and one son. He was a G. A. R. veteran and was well known in the county.

Summer Cars On Sunday.

Summer cars replaced the winter cars on the lines of the Sedalia Light and Traction Co. Sunday and a good business was done the entire day. The points of interest visited were the fair grounds, Liberty park and the Missouri Pacific shops, where 134 strike breakers are employed, but guards prevented the visitors getting a glimpse at the new men.

Peter Pehl Is Home Again.

Peter Pehl, the retired capitalist, who for weeks past has been a patient at the Pupton sanitarium at Kansas City, returned home Sunday night, looking better and feeling improved in health.

ILLUSTRATED
A THOUGHT FOR TODAY.

There is a kind of greatness which does not depend upon furniture; it is a certain manner that distinguishes us, and which seems to destine us for great things; it is the value we insensibly set upon ourselves; it is by this quality that we gain the deference of other men, and it is this which commonly raises us more above them, than birth, rank or ever merit itself.
—La Rochefoucauld.

MEMORIAL:
Bright wreaths, by Love entwined,
shall crown the brave;
Above, their country's flag shall proudly wave;
And lovingly, their low graves bending o'er,
God's flowers, the stars, shall bloom forever more.
—J. C. Bradshaw.

BAD WORK FOR BOYS.
The study which the national labor committee has made of the messenger service of the Western Union, the Postal Telegraph and other small companies, shows conclusively that no boy should have a place in the night service. Owen R. Lovejoy, the secretary of the committee,
says:

"That the reader may understand the nature of forces affecting child life in the night messenger service he must dismiss from his mind this popular picture of a small boy to be seen running at top speed to deliver a telegram to its destination.
This is a dominant feature of the day messenger service, but at night it plays a subsidiary part and in the case of many local companies has no place whatever.

"In a large city in the middle west the sign of one of the companies doing a national business announces:
'Messengers furnished day or night for any kind of service,' and a New York up-state city has an enterprising local company which proclaims on large calendars: 'We furnish boys to run errands or to do work of any kind. Single errands, 10 cents.' One of their street agents, an undersized boy of 14 years, was eager at 10:30 at night to 'show' us the lowest resorts in the city, giving names and street addresses, which further investigation proved to be shockingly accurate.

"Among the duties of messenger boys, reported by one of our investigators within the past six months, are mentioned the following: Waiting on tables, wheeling an invalid, buying women's underwear in a department store, taking care of a baby, assisting women to dress, carrying business reports to distant cities, purchasing candy, flowers, cigars and liquor, acting as house watchman in the absence of its owner, folding circulars and mailing in an office, acting as door boy, at a reception and

as an escort on the streets."

The day messengers do legitimate work, and a bright boy is often given
a better position by a business man with whom he comes in contact. No such opportunity is open to the night
boy. His work is of a different sort.
Besides the wear and tear which any
night work makes on a growing boy,
these little fellows have entered one
of the "dead ends" or "blind alleys" of industry. The investigation showed that very few enter good office positions or learn trades. They are doomed at 14 or 16 to join the great ranks of the unskilled—and
from the ranks of the unskilled boys
are recruited later the unemployed men.

But worse than this is the use made
of the night messenger in illegitimate errands. They are sent to drug stores to get opium in plain packages, to saloons to buy "half pints,"
to disorderly houses to carry notes
and to make assignments.

The committee's evidence on this last point is of a character to prohibit general publication. Suffice it to say that the growing boys are found in numbers in many cities
whose chief earnings were the tips secured for such service. They were in complete possession of the vernacular, the names of houses and the inmates, the practices.

With this evidence before it, the
New York state legislature has passed
an act, now before Governor Hughes for approval, prohibiting the employment of any person under 21
years of age for night messenger service.

The New York act ought to be introduced next winter in every state legislature in this country. There can be no two ways of looking at the matter. Night messenger service is a device for the moral and physical destruction of boyhood, and it should be stopped. This is a campaign in which newspapers, ministers, school teachers and the public can work together. Even the managers of the companies are in favor of it when they learn the facts.

THE GRADUATES.
From every hamlet town and village has come the report of the high school commencement, with its array of boys and girls who have completed the course of study as adopted and they have received diplomas signifying that for four years they have equaled or exceeded
the required average in the branches included; that their behavior has been satisfactory and that they have completed the first task set before them in a good and successful manner.

For their school life is the first task set before these young men and women, who with hundreds and thousands of others of their kind, entered the primary grades twelve or fifteen years ago, and the results of these last few days show how few
have stayed in the race to the finish.
It is an indication of the survival of
the fittest, the arguments to the contrary notwithstanding.

These young people who have toiled
long and well are entitled to marked recognition at the hands of their friends, and will doubtless carry forward the good work as the years go by. The fact that they have won the first goal of their life work
is a circumstance in their favor, having the strength and courage to stand firm and accomplish their undertakings.

In after years they will have further triumphs, but it is not likely that an greater thrill will ever come
to them than the one occasioned by
the presentation of a white-ribboned
diploma, the first public acknowledgment
of the completion of a long drawn out task.

ing as door boy, at a reception and
as an escort on the streets."

The day messengers do legitimate
work, and a bright boy is often given
a better position by a business man
with whom he comes in contact. No
such opportunity is open to the night
boy. His work is of a different sort.
Besides the wear and tear which any
night work makes on a growing boy,
these little fellows have entered one
of the "dead ends" or "blind alleys" of industry. The investigation showed that very few enter good office positions or learn trades. They are doomed at 14 or 16 to join the
great ranks of the unskilled—and
from the ranks of the unskilled boys
are recruited later the unemployed men.

But worse than this is the use made
of the night messenger in illegitimate errands. They are sent to drug stores to get opium in plain packages, to saloons to buy "half pints,"
to disorderly houses to carry notes
and to make assignments.

The committee's evidence on this
last point is of a character to prohibit general publication. Suffice it
to say that the growing boys are found in numbers in many cities
whose chief earnings were the tips
secured for such service. They were
in complete possession of the vernacular, the names of houses and the inmates, the practices.

With this evidence before it, the
New York state legislature has passed
an act, now before Governor
Hughes for approval, prohibiting the employment of any person under 21
years of age for night messenger service.

The New York act ought to be introduced next winter in every state legislature in this country. There can be no two ways of looking at
the matter. Night messenger service
is a device for the moral and physical destruction of boyhood, and it should be stopped. This is a campaign in which newspapers, ministers, school teachers and the public
can work together. Even the managers of the companies are in favor of
it when they learn the facts.

THE GRADUATES.
From every hamlet town and village has come the report of the high school commencement, with its
array of boys and girls who have completed the course of study as
adopted and they have received
diplomas signifying that for four years they have equaled or exceeded
the required average in the branches
included; that their behavior has
been satisfactory and that they have completed the first task set before
them in a good and successful manner.

For their school life is the first task set before these young men and women, who with hundreds and
thousands of others of their kind, entered the primary grades twelve or fifteen years ago, and the results of these last few days show how few
have stayed in the race to the finish.
It is an indication of the survival of
the fittest, the arguments to the contrary notwithstanding.

These young people who have toiled
long and well are entitled to marked recognition at the hands of
their friends, and will doubtless carry forward the good work as the years go by. The fact that they have won the first goal of their life work
is a circumstance in their favor, having the strength and courage to stand
firm and accomplish their undertakings.

In after years they will have further triumphs, but it is not likely
that an greater thrill will ever come
to them than the one occasioned by
the presentation of a white-ribboned
diploma, the first public acknowledgment
of the completion of a long
drawn out task.

RECENT FOX HUNT

"SPECTATOR" WRITES REGARDING THE MEETING AT ELK LICK, MISSOURI.

'MINT' JOHNS' FINE DOG, 'SCOUT'

The Story of How Green McFarland Lost His Old Hat Betting on His Remarkable Dog, "Buggar."

Correspondence Democrat-Sentinel.

Elk Lick Springs, Mo., May 30.—It was the greatest fox hunt ever pulled off in Missouri. It was enjoyed by about two hundred men and women and about one hundred dogs. The dogs were of most all colors and sizes, and the best lot of dogs the writer had ever seen at one time.

There were dogs from five or six counties and as many states—Arkansas, Kentucky, Virginia and Missouri, and men in all the professions of life. In age, the hunters ranged from six to eighty-one years. There was also one woman fox hunter, who was an expert at the sport, and we would say one of the best judges of dogs in the state.

There were thirty-eight dogs entered in the cup race, thirty-five of which ran—thirty-four "gogetters" and one, the most valuable of the lot, which took the place in the fox hunt that the trap does in the club shoot.

This dog belongs to Mr. W. M. Johns, of Sedalia. When Mr. Johns had located a den of foxes in an old log, he placed "Scout," his dog, at one end of the log and he got at the other; and as he would chase the foxes out "Scout" would swallow them.

Then, during the race, as fast as the other dogs would catch or hole a fox, all Mr. Johns had to do was to twist old "Scout's" tail and out would come another fox and in two minutes the pack would have Mr. Reynard going some. "Mint" continued that through the entire cup race.

Mr. Johns had expected his dog to heave up the fox and take after it, thereby starting every race in the hunt, hoping that he would capture the first prize; but evidently he had loaded him too full, and instead of getting first prize, "Scout" got the booby. Mr. Johns seemed to be as proud of his dog and prize as any man on the grounds.

We think that one of the best dogs in the hunt belonged to Mr. Glenn, and believe the judges would like to have awarded him one of the prizes, but owing to its nickname, the editor in publishing a description of the hunt would have thrown the whole cheese into the waste basket. The initials of the dog's name were "F. P." meaning Fox Pusher; but some scamp nicknamed it and the judges only knew it by its nickname and did not think that it would look well in print.

One of the best true jokes pulled off on the hunt is on Green McFarland, who was very anxious that his dog, "Buggar," would take the prize. In this case there had been placed a number of children in a deep hollow and when the dogs made a lose, the kids were to begin screaming, yelling, trying to imitate the hounds and climb to the top of the hill.

Mr. McFarland, on hearing the noise, remarked with great surprise to Charley Witcher: "There! there! they come, over there! Don't you hear them?"

Witcher said: "I don't believe that is dogs."

"Yes, I know it is; don't you hear Buggar? There! there! that's him. That's Buggar. You can't fool me. I know that yelp. Come on, old fellow, you're in the lead now, just stay there until you pass the judges," said Green.

Witcher remarked, "Green, that is not your dog."

"Yes it is; I know my dog."

"I'll bet that it ain't," said Witcher.

"Yes it is; I'll bet you my old hat." (It wasn't worth 15 cents.) Down went his old hat and at the same time down went Witcher's who remarked that the winner take both hats.

"Good," said Green.

By this time the kids had gained the top of the hill and began laughing and talking.

Witcher picked up both hats and Green, standing there with the sun shining down on the top of the bald spot on top of his head, said:

"D— it, don't that beat you?"

Witcher said, "No, you're the one that's beaten."

Green began to beg for his hat and said, "You've won the hat fairly."

"I intend to keep it, too," said Witcher.

Green then tried to borrow it, but being unable to do so he said that he would give him a dollar for it if he would not tell the story. So Witcher swore the writer not to tell it, but I think that I am not violating any oath by writing of it.

The writer had heard a great deal of talk about L. M. Monsees and was very much surprised to find him such a quarrelsome man. He got into trouble with Mr. Harned, one of the meekest of men on the ground. It took the level heads to quiet them and make peace. We think he was abusive to Mr. Johns in presenting his booby prize. Johns knows he has a very valuable dog or he would never have entered him for a prize.

There was much talk about "Tiger water" on the ground. Mrs. White wanted to know how and where they got it, and also how it was made.

Ben Woolley told her it was made by taking the pure spring water east of the house and mixing it with sulphur water.

She turned to her husband and told him to keep watch and not let anyone give it to either of her dogs. If it has the same effect on our dogs it has on some men we can't win a prize.

"Why, Charlie," speaking to her husband, "that Tiger water makes their heads light and legs weak."

The writer hopes to enjoy many more such fox hunts.—A Spectator.

TEAR THEM DOWN

TOWERING STRUCTURES TO BE RAZED TO MAKE NEW AVENUE.

BUILDINGS WORTH $40,000,000

Millions of Tons of Ice Stored and Ready to Relieve People During the Hot Season That Must Come in Time.

New York, May 30.—That the pressure of its enormous street traffic must soon burst the bounds of Gotham's highways is predicted by engineers who are today consulting here with the mayor on the emergency problem of forcing a new avenue through the heart of the island.

Only by prying apart some $40,000,000 worth of towering structures just west of the main artery of Fifth avenue can even a temporary check be put upon the serious congestion of every thoroughfare, it is agreed.

Some of the most massive skyscrapers of the clubs, apartments, hotels and offices of the fashionable part of town must be leveled by the city to make way for a few additional miles of highway, if the present plans are carried out.

Already the solid structure of Manhattan Island has begun to dam up all traffic to a serious degree, and New Yorkers are beginning to realize that further failure to open up new highways must ultimately fetter all movement about town.

Millions of tons of ice are today stored and ready to relieve the people of this town through the hot spells of the opening summer season, according to reports that have just been received here by welfare workers who are interested in protecting the people of the tenement districts against the horrors of ice famine.

Rheumatism

I have found a tried and tested cure for Rheumatism! Not a remedy that will straighten the distorted limbs of chronic cripples, nor turn bony growths back to flesh again. That is impossible. But I can now surely kill the pains and pang of this deplorable disease. In Germany—with Chemist in the City of Darmstadt—I found the last ingredient with which Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy was made a perfected, dependable prescription. Without that last ingredient I successfully treated many cases of Rheumatism; but now, at last, I can finally cure all curable cases of this heretofore much dreaded disease. These sand-like granular wastes, found in Rheumatic Blood, seem to dissolve and pass away under the action of this remedy as freely as does sugar when added to pure water. And then, when dissolved, these poisonous wastes freely pass from the system, and the cause of Rheumatism is gone forever. There is now no real need—no actual excuse to suffer longer with our help. We sell, and in confidence recommend ple of the tenement districts against the horrors of ice famine.

Only the machinations of the ice trust barons can now serve to shut off the poor from plenty of this life-saving commodity, it is asserted, as a cold winter and great growth in artificial ice making have guarded well against a shortage in the natural supply.

With human life weighing heavily in the scales that determine the plenty and price of ice blocks to New York's sweltering poor, the authorities have this year determined to insist upon some regulation of this trade during the days when the babies begin to die about the fetid East Side.

To meet President Taft beside the ivied towers of their alma mater, scores of Bryn Mawr graduates here are today preparing to make a general exodus with their husbands and families to the most momentous commencement reunion that has ever been held over in the Pennsylvania seat of this girls' college.

With some $60,000 still to be raised to meet the requirements of the conditional gift that will assure the million dollar endowment fund which is needed to extend the work of man's education at Bryn Mawr, the alumnae in this city are making every effort to enlist the full support of the friends of their college here.

If its thousand graduates fall now to raise the remaining sum, they declare, Bryn Mawr cannot continue to hold forth an education to all American girls without lowering its standards or raising its tuition fees.

Bryn Mawr ties are strong throughout this town, and it is expected that the president will be able to announce that the future of the college to which he has sent his daughter is to be assured.

Recovered somewhat from the panic that has pervaded the poorer quarters at the threat of collision with the tail of Halley's comet, thousands of people of this town are each night crowding the boulevards above the Hudson for long sessions of serious star gazing.

Seldom has any scare talk really impressed itself upon New Yorkers more deeply than that of the possible brushing by of this stampeded sphere in the heavens.

Church revivals, hospitals, asylums and police stations are still receiving scores of the victims of this delusion, and the colored quarters have not yet quieted down.

Altogether Gotham has been miraculously sobered by even this hint of the unavoidable consequences of the revolving of the universe.

For the first time in recent Gotham history, straw hats are today still in the minority upon the streets, although the date for the change in men's spring headgear is a fortnight gone by.

Cold rains and sultry showers have apparently frightened the male population so that it still clings to the sombre shining derby. Even the rusty, thick suits of winter weight are yet worn by three men out of every five. New York has never known a spring season that delayed longer in yielding weather fit for the things of summer.

LARGE CROWD PRESENT

Doxey Trial Attended by Increased Number of Spectators.

St. Louis, Mo., May 30.—The trial of Mrs. Dora E. Doxey, was resumed in Judge Grimm's court this morning. The defendant was much refreshed after a day's rest yesterday.

The announcement of the woman's attorney that cacodylate of sodium, with which she is alleged to have poisoned Erger, has been fed to a dog for three weeks without any deleterious effect, brought out the largest crowd that has attended the trial since it began.

C. H. Miller, a lawyer of Des Moines, Iowa, testified that he received a letter dated June 14, less than a month before Erger died, from Mrs. Doxey asking for a loan of $20. She said in this letter that she was to get the insurance on a man who "is almost dead."

A DOUBLE TRAGEDY

ST. PAUL MAN KILLED HIS WIFE AND THE PRIEST HE SAYS
SHE ACCUSED.

HAD BEEN TAKING THE 'JAG' CURE

Murderer Was Spirited Away When Parishioners of the Dead Divine Talked of Taking Law Into Their Own Hands.

St. Paul, May 30.—P. J. Gibbons, a live stock commission man of South St. Paul, Sunday shot and killed his wife at their home in that city. Then, placing his little son in the buggy by his side, he drove away.

A few minutes later Gibbons rang the door bell at the residence of Fr. E. J. Walsh, the young pastor of St. Augustine's Roman Catholic church, and as the door was opened fired two shots into the priest's head, killing him almost instantly.

Gibbons was arrested and was brought to the Ramsey county jail in St. Paul, as there had been talk of lynching at South St. Paul, where the priest was popular.

At the jail last night Gibbons said that his wife made a confession in which the name of Fr. Walsh was mentioned.

For three days Gibbons has been an inmate of a drink cure sanitarium in Minneapolis. Sunday morning his wife called at the sanitarium, and Gibbons insisted on accompanying her to South St. Paul to attend to some business affairs.

The sanitarium physician protested, but it was finally agreed to allow an attendant to accompany Gibbons and his wife.

Gibbons attended to some business matters at his office, and requested the attendant to wait at a nearby hotel until he procured a rig at his house to take the party back to Minneapolis. The shooting followed shortly afterward.

SHOT ON RIFLE RANGE

Private at Presidio Lies Half a Day in Leaden Hall.

Monterey, Cal., May 30.—His body an unseen target for the rain of bullets of a firing squadron at rifle practice, Claude Hetheron, a private of Company K, Thirtieth Infantry, stationed at the Presidio, who was taking measurements of the range, was literally shot to pieces and died after lingering in the reservation hospital for two days. The accident occurred last week, but the facts have just come to light. An investigation of the affair delayed the funeral until Saturday.

All during the afternoon of the day he was shot Hetheron crept about on the embankment peppered with lead while the bullets whizzed about him. His cries could not be heard. After the first bullet had brought him down he made an effort to drag himself out of range, but no matter which way he turned his escape was cut off by the flying missiles.

Finally he sank on the sand mound, awaiting the shot that would end his torture. Bullets sped about him, ripping his clothing and tearing his flesh. When markers found him his head had been shot nearly off. He was married.

Her Explanation.

Teacher—For a correct understanding of this sentence, "They cleaned up $75 between them," it is necessary to explain that there was no literal act of cleaning up. The words convey the idea of distribution, or parceling out, and may relate to the division of the proceeds of a financial transaction or the spoils of a questionable or dishonest venture. In short, the phrase is peculiar to the language and may be classed as idiomatic.

Tommy Tucker—I understand the sentence all right, but I don't know what your talking about.—Chicago Tribune.

Churches, Trees and Street Cars Suffer in Tennessee Storm.

Nashville, Tenn., May 30.—A hail and wind storm which lasted less than ten minutes yesterday and which swept a territory in and near this city less than a mile wide, and four miles long, caused damage to the amount of many thousand dollars.

The Reid Avenue Christian church was so badly wrecked that it will have to be torn down. Many trees were uprooted and street car traffic demoralized. Three street cars on a viaduct narrowly missed being tossed to the ground below by the wind.

GOING AFTER "PROOF"

Dr. Cook Will Then Take Records to Copenhagen.

New York, May 30.—The mystery of the whereabouts of Dr. Frederick A. Cook was solved tonight. He is in Scotland, preparing for a trip to Etah, whence he plans to bring back his records of the discovery of the North Pole and his instruments which are cached there. He also intends to bring back the two Eskimos who accompanied him on his dash to the Pole, and with them an interpreter in the person of the Eskimo boy, Mene, who recently returned to Etah from New York.

Dr. Cook's objective point when he shall have recovered his records and instruments will be Copenhagen. There he will submit his completed proofs to the scientific body before which he appeared when he first returned from the Far North. After that he plans to return to New York to face his detractors and prove beyond doubt that he was not only the first, but the only discoverer of the Pole. It is expected he will reach Copenhagen about the last of October and New York, perhaps, a month later.

The staunchest supporter Dr. Cook has in New York, Captain Bradley S. Osborn, of the Arctic Club of America, tonight would not admit the foregoing statements as to Dr. Cook's plan, which were received from another but no less authentic source, but he did say it was his "impression" that the statements were accurate.

PATRIOTISM COSTS LIFE

Gierlowski, Hoisting Flag, Comes in Contact With Live Wire.

Pittsburg, Pa., May 30.—The patriotism of John Gierlowski, a middle aged Poleander, has cost him his life. While trying to hoist the stars and stripes for Memorial day on the roof of Turner hall in Glendale, a copper wire on which the flag was strung came in contact with a live light wire.

The shock which traveled to Gierlowski knocked him down and, tangled in the flag and wire, he rolled to the ground, thirty-five feet below. He died a half hour later, either from the electric shock or injuries received in the fall.

DEATH OF EDITOR

DEMISE WAS CAUSED BY FALLING FROM A STREET CAR AT SAN ANTONIO.

WAS A TALENTED NEWSPAPERMAN

Worked on the New York Sun Under the Late Charles A. Dana, Also on the Cincinnati Enquirer and Globe-Democrat.

San Antonio, Texas, May 30.—As the result of injuries received through falling from a moving street car, Edward R. Quarles, a talented newspaper man and writer of the old school, is dead.

Mr. Quarles was born at Minden, La., in 1854, and gained his first newspaper experience in this city when a little frontier town without railroad connection. Later he worked for the New York Sun under Chas. Dana, the Cincinnati Enquirer, the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, several Washington, D. C., papers, and the Nashville, Tenn., American. With the latter publication he was connected for fifteen years in various capacities.

For a short time he was in the employ of the federal government, serving on various commissions. It is principally due to his efforts that the Mississippi river commissions adopted the plan of matressing the banks of that river with a view of regulating its current and bed.

Later Mr. Quarles held a position in the war department, but resigned for the reason that he did not get work enough for the salary he was drawing. In recent years he found the struggle for existence a very hard one, principally because he refused to atune himself to the change which had taken place in journalism. He would neither write sensational nor commonplace news.

Mr. Quarles was very versatile and accomplished. Traveling for many years in the Latin Americas he acquired a thorough knowledge of Spanish and was generally considered as an authority on all things Mexican.

He was well versed in the history and lore of the Aztecs. About three months ago Mr. Quarles discovered, near Mascota, state of Jalisco, Mexico, a rock inscription the characters of which differ totally from those employed by the Aztecs.

A series of human interest stories entitled "The Casual Casnist," made his work familiar in many parts of the United States and abroad, it being claimed that in their humor and pathos they equalled the best work of Mark Twain.

A few days before his death Mr. Quarles was granted by the Mexican government a title to a gold mine in Mexico for which he had a standing offer of $75,000. He died destitute and for two days before his death he had not eaten a morsel.

FAMOUS COLUMBIA RIVER

Titanic Banks of World-Famed "Stream" Affords Protection.

Omaha, Neb., May 30.—Displaying itself with all its scenic glories multiplied a hundred-fold, the world-famous Columbia river, which winds down, through, in and out and around the Rocky, Selkirk and Bitter Root mountain chains and empties into the Pacific, is today on a howling, yet harmless rampage.

The rushing, whirling, terrific, seemingly ferocious waters of the Columbia are described by travelers, just returning to this city from the far northwest, as today the finest scenic feature of the entire "gallery of America's prize scenery," as the wonderlands of that part of the northwest are known. Yet the rampage of the Columbia only enhances the beauties of the scenic attractions, for the river's ravings are harmless, the Titanic rock banks all along its course giving absolute protection to residents, settlers, farmers and fishermen. Thus the Columbia river's course is made the greatest of western attractions for travelers this summer, as according to predictions, the rampages of the Columbia invariably continue for great lengths of time.

With the receipt of the news from the northwest, the issuance of the book "The Columbia River," by E. L. Lomax, G. P. A., Union Pacific railroad, is especially timely, as it gives the entire history of the notable river from the day of its discovery to the present year, along with fascinating photographs. Copies of the handsome little book will be sent free upon application to E. L. Lomax, G. P. A., Union Pacific railroad, Omaha, Neb.

Too Much For Him.

"Yes," said the thin party. "I'm going to change my boarding place. Those three-course dinners are too much for my digestive apparatus." "Three-course dinner!" exclaimed his friend. "Of what do they consist?" "Napkins, ice water and tooth-picks," was the reply.

Next Best Thing.

Timkins—"I understand the boss was unable to deliver the goods at the convention?"

Simkins—"That's right. But he did the next best thing."

Timkins—"What was that?"

Simkins—"He prevented his rival from making the delivery."

Sure of Fate.

They were seated around the dinner table.

"Great guns!" exclaimed the superstitious man, "there are 13 of us."

"Well, what of it?" queried one of the party.

"Why," rejoined the s. m., "one of us is sure to die before the others."

Much the Same.

Mrs. Homer—"Mrs. Naggsby was here today. She reminds me of an automobile."

Homer—"What's the answer, my dear?"

Mrs. Homer—"She's always running other people down."

MANY HEARD GOV. HADLEY CASTS PALL OVER SCHOOL

Delivered the Memorial Address at Jefferson City Sunday.

Death of Mrs. Still Cancels Exercises of Graduates.

Jefferson City, May 30.—Memorial services were held here last afternoon in the new armory building, under the auspices of the local G. A. R. post and generally participated in by the veterans of the civil war on both sides and the Spanish-American soldiers, as well as the local national guards.

Governor Hadley delivered the principal address of the afternoon and was followed by Dr. Martin, chaplain at the penitentiary.

Decoration services were observed this afternoon at the National cemetery and the graves of all soldiers there and in the city cemeteries were decorated.

Colonel A. N. Seaber, of this city, delivered the address of the afternoon. A feature was a parade through the main streets.

BASEBALL HITS "RAT"

Foul Ball Struck Girl, but the "Fixers" Saved Her.

Chester, Pa., May 30.—In opposition to the wishes of her mother, Miss Jennie Kestner of Upland wore a huge "rat" in her hair when she attended the game between the Upland and Marcus Hook teams Saturday afternoon, and the disobedience undoubtedly saved her life.

She was intently watching the game when a foul ball came along and struck her on the top of her head and knocked her sprawling to the seat below.

Spectators thought that she had been seriously or perhaps fatally injured, and the mishap stayed the game until it was found that Miss Kestner was only stunned. The "rat" had acted as a cushion.

TAMPERED WITH ENGINES

Russian Engineer Accused of Attempting to Cause Explosion.

St. Petersburg, May 30.—M. Biscalleff, assistant engineer of the imperial yacht Stabder, has been court-martialed at Kronstadt on a charge of tampering with the engines of the yacht with a view to provoking an explosion while the vessel was out at sea.

It seems that M. Biscalleff was caught in the act, though the affair, which happened some considerable time ago, has been kept a secret. It is suggested that Biscalleff's intention was to revenge himself on his superior officers.

Do You Get Up With a Lame Back?

Kidney Trouble Makes You Miserable.

Almost everyone knows of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy, because of its remarkable health restoring properties. Swamp-Root fulfills almost every wish in overcoming rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. It corrects inability to hold water and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often through the day, and to get up many times during the night.

Swamp-Root is not recommended for everything but if you have kidney, liver or bladder trouble, it will be found just the remedy you need. It has been thoroughly tested in private practice, and has proved so successful that a special arrangement has been made by which all readers of this paper, who have not already tried it, may have a sample bottle sent free by mail, also a book telling more about Swamp-Root, and how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper and send your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. The regular fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles are sold by all druggists. Don't make any mistake but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

MATTER OF RATES

NEW YORK FINANCIAL CHRONICLE SAYS SHIPPERS ARE SHORT-SIGHTED.

'TIS GREAT INDUSTRIAL AGENCY

Alleges Wage Advances Increased Expenses of Railroads and Touches on Possible Recurrence of the 1907 Panic.

The following interesting article on the rate question is from the New York Financial Chronicle.

Are not shippers in trunk line territory pursuing a short-sighted policy when they seek to prevent the railroads from advancing their freight rates to recoup themselves for the tremendous additions to their annual expenses involved in the advances of wages that have been going on since the beginning of the year and are still in progress? These shippers, as a rule, are men of superior intelligence, and with the panic of the year 1907 still in mind they can not be unaware of the close connection existing between railroad prosperity and prosperity in the whole commercial and industrial world. Suppose these shippers were successful in their endeavor and that as a consequence the net earning powers of the railroads became seriously impaired, as would inevitably be the case, who would be the worst sufferers? Would not every industry throughout the country feel the blow and would not these shippers, so dependent upon the general prosperity, find that they themselves were hardest hit of all?

Of all the country's great industrial agencies there is none of equal magnitude with the railroad industry. It gives direct employment to nearly 2,000,000 persons, and the outstanding security issues on the same exceed $16,000,000,000. These securities are held by investors, large and small, no small part of them being in the hands of savings banks and other classes of financial institutions. Consider what a diminution in the market value of these securities would mean, together with a reduction in the income derived from them. The diminution in the purchasing powers of the holders would alone be a serious matter. Then consider further what would happen if the supplies of new capital necessary for the development and extensions of the railroad systems were curtailed, or altogether cut off, by reason of the impaired earning capacity of the properties, arising out of their inability to advance their transportation charges to meet the increase in the cost of rendering transportation service.

With new capital unavailable or to be had only in limited amounts, hundreds of millions of dollars which now go each year into productive enterprises would be withdrawn and the fruitfulness of influence of that money in the channels of trade be lost. In other words, with the railroads forced to contract their outlays, their orders for everything needed in the conduct of their operations and for the development of their properties would gradually fall away. This, in turn, would mean that many mills, factories and furnaces would be reduced to idleness, throwing great masses of working people out of employment. That, in turn, would mean diminished purchasing power on the part of a further considerable portion of the population, and this loss of purchasing power would necessarily be felt in other industries, which, accordingly, would have to reduce their output and dismiss some of their wage forces. All this in the end would mean diminished shipments over the railroads and a great falling off in their freight and passenger traffic. The railroads would then have no use for the 2,000,000 men to whom they are now giving employment, and possibly half a million of them would have to be dismissed. The effect would be to still further curtail the purchasing power of the population.

This is no financial picture. Precisely the situation here outlined came about during the panic. The gross earnings of the United States railroads then for several months fell off over $50,000,000 a month, or at the rate of more than $600,000,000 a year. In addition, new capital supplies at the rate of $400,000,000 to $500,000,000 a year were withheld. With that the state of things, government officials and legislative bodies considered it good policy to cease their assault on the railroads, and even merchants and shippers engaged in attempts to revive trade by organizing prosperity associations and sunshine league. Can it be possible that these things already have been forgotten or that an intelligent body of business men would deliberately invite their recurrence?

Twins Suffer Twin Injury.

Maryville, Mo., May 30.—Twin brothers suffered twin injuries here when Claude and Clyde Middleton, 17-year-old sons of James Middleton, were playing baseball in the street in front of their home and in an attempt to catch a high fly, collided, striking their foreheads together. Both young men were rendered unconscious by the concussion and each received a gash that required surgeon's stitches to unite.

PLANS A NURSERY

WILL THUS HELP WORKING WOMEN WHO HAVE SMALL CHILDREN TO SUPPORT.

AFTER AN OLD POLICE STATION

Commissioners Favor Project and May Lease Him Old Car Street Building—Like the Sedalia Institution.

The following article from the St. Louis Republic of Sunday is of local interest, following the establishment of Melita Day Nursery in this city: Fr. Timothy Dempsey, pastor of St. Patrick's church and proprietor of Exile's Rest, No. 1111 North Seventh street, where thousands of homeless wanderers have been domiciled, is planning a day nursery for the children of working women unable to care for their little ones while at their daily employment.

"Father Tim," as he is affectionately known to his parishioners, the thousands he has befriended and the countless others, is negotiating with the board of police commissioners for the Carr street station, Seventh and Carr streets, soon to be abandoned or more spacious quarters at Tenth and Carr streets.

The police commissioners declined Fr. Dempsey's offer to purchase the historic old station house, but look with favor on the suggestion that they lease the building for a period of five years. The deal has not progressed any further than Fr. Dempsey's agreement to accept the lease if it is offered him.

"I am anxious to get possession of the station house as soon as it is vacated," said Fr. Dempsey. "and I believe the police commissioners will lease it to me. They did not want to sell at this time, but suggested a lease. I would prefer the latter arrangement."

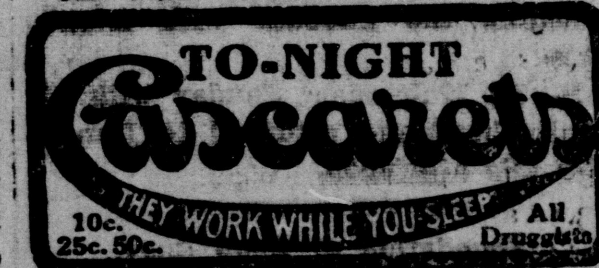

"The day nursery is a necessity in my parish. Every day I am asked by some poor woman, thrown on her own resources because of the death of her husband, or other causes, to advise her how she may care for her children and at the same time earn enough money to support them."

"Only today I learned of a woman whose husband had died, leaving her with several small children. She must seek work and she can not take the children with her. Either she must put them in an orphan asylum, which she does not want to do, or attempt to eke out an existence at home.

"Many of these women are good domestics and obtain good positions in west end families, returning home at night. Their employers will not permit them to bring their children and they must either lose their positions or give their offspring into the care of other people."

"I want to establish a nursery where these children of tender years may be taken care of while their parents are at work. The Carr street police station could easily be remodeled to suit my needs. It is located in the center of a district where many women with children go out to work daily. They could leave their children at the nursery in the morning and call for them in the evening."

"The mothers would benefit by this arrangement. They would not worry about their little ones, knowing that they were in good hands. Their employers would get better service from them and the children would receive a sort of kindergarten training that would have a tendency to start them right."

President Matt G. Reynolds, of the board of police commissioners approves of Fr. Dempsey's plan and the station house in all probability will be leased to the priest when the new quarters are ready.

"The board considered Fr. Dempsey's proposal to purchase the Carr street station," said Mr. Reynolds, "and declared that it might not be good business to sell the property at this time. We saw no objection to leasing it, however, and so informed Fr. Dempsey. He said he would prefer a lease. The matter is now in Commissioner Brinsmade's hands. He and Fr. Dempsey will probably agree on terms later."

The Carr street station has housed many desperate criminals, but that fact, Fr. Dempsey says, will not deter him from transforming it into a home for innocents. Asked how the home would be supported, Fr. Tim answered that he never was troubled with financial matters.

There are plenty of good people who will support such a worthy project," he said.

Archbishop Glennon, according to Fr. Dempsey, approves of his plans and will aid in their materialization.

THE PEOPLE ARE AROUSED

They No Longer Doubt—Testimonials Are Useless.

The Root Juice people came here to prove reports that were circulating over the country in relation to the many remarkable cures the great remedy was making. Hundreds of people that heard of the remedy crowded into the drug store and bought some of it, and after taking it a short while many returned for more and urged their friends to try it. Many local testimonials were published in this paper until it became useless, as so many of this city know of many cures it has made and is making. It has certainly proved to be the greatest remedy known for the stomach, liver, kidneys and blood. It is remarkable the way it heals the stomach and bowels and gives strength to the liver and kidneys. Out of all of the hundreds that gave this remedy a fair trial at this point, not a single one has been heard to condemn it, but on the contrary, many who suffered for years with indigestion, chronic constipation, rheumatism and various kidney complaints, after taking a few bottles of the Juice, claim a positive cure. So the great remedy does not merely patch. IT CURES. Root Juice is sold for $1 a bottle, six bottles for $5, at Wilcox's drug store.

BOY OF 12 FREEZING TO DEATH

While hunting for a job. Selfishness and greed. Grind your employees—make a 100 per cent profit on money you invest in their wealth-producing labor. He himself away to Europe; spend your surplus in hunting happiness; surcease from the load of a guilty conscience. In amusement, sports and maybe in hilarious living (can't be found in any or all of these), and let their boys and girls freeze to death and starve to death while hunting for a job.

Are you proud of your fortune and the way you got it? Which is most valuable, in your opinion, a little gotten by merit and helpfulness to others, and especially to those who help you to make your wealth, or a fortune gotten by the grinding methods mentioned above, so often and extensively practiced? To get rich, in money, the world's way of estimating riches, it may be necessary to let selfishness and greed control—to ignore the golden rule—but the man thus enriched is not rich but poor—poor indeed and greatly to be pitied. In order to reach my goal of wealth, position, reputation, power, must I ignore my obligation to my fellow-man, and push him aside, back or down in my effort to gain these perishable things? Perish the thought. If I cannot accomplish my purpose, realize my hopes and make money or even a living by the practice of the mutual benefit, profit-sharing principle, I will do without money. Money is a good thing, a desirable thing; but there is such a thing as paying too much for money, and to be both blind and deaf to the rights and necessities of others is too much to pay for it. And, after all, the real business of life, of true men, is making men. Making money, simply for money's sake, is an unworthy ambition, and should never be reckoned the summum bonum, but only as a means to an end, the noblest of all ambitions—to make men.

I want a partner who is in full accord with my convictions, as expressed herein, to help me put into effect, my plan. Resolutions, good resolutions are good, plans are essential, and you may wisely plan your work, but until you work your plan, resolutions and plans avail nothing.

LEAD SANER LIVES

OVER IN ENGLAND THAN WE DO ON THIS SIDE OF THE ATLANTIC OCEAN.

SAYS ONE WHO PAID VISIT HERE

Spent Five Years in America, Then Returned Home and Wrote For the Press of Our Many "Shortcomings."

International News Service.

London, May 30.—The fact that "Uncle" Joe Cannon, Speaker of the House of Representatives of the United States, chews tobacco while that honorable body is in session, the jury system in America and numerous other Yankee methods of living and doing business are severely criticized by an Englishman who has spent considerable time in the states, in an article which he writes for a London daily, in which he tells of some things he thinks are done better in his native land than in America.

The article follows:

It irritates the average American to be told that his country does not "lick creation" in every respect. After five years' residence in the states, I take this opportunity of submitting a number of "things we do better at home."

In the first place, there is a lack of dignity in the conduct of public affairs that tends to bring their tribunals into contempt. Take, for instance, the meeting of congress at Washington. The other day I saw "Uncle Joe," the speaker, open the proceedings. He entered the house smoking a cigar, a "la Captain Kettle," after which he took a wad of tobacco from his vest pocket, placed it in his mouth and expectorated several times. I might add that each member of the august assembly is supplied with a desk, stationery and spittoon.

There is no denying the fact that the public have more confidence in the management of our financial institutions than the American people have for theirs. The expression, "safe as a bank," is meaningless in a country where they are always smashing. It is not unusual to find banks doing business out west on a capital of $2,500. They are trying to introduce our system of postal savings banks, by which, if successful, it is estimated that six hundred thousand dollars will be immediately forthcoming from the stockings of those who distrust the banks.

To watch the swearing in of a jury on an important case in America offers food for reflection, and one wonders how an intelligent community can put up with such a system. Over here, a man is supposed to render his verdict after the important essential of listening to the evidence. Across the Atlantic, if a citizen wishes to escape serving or a jury he comes into court and asserts that he has already made up his mind or is afflicted with a prejudice which would render it impossible for him to give a just verdict, no matter what evidence he might hear. Then the lawyers spend hours arguing as to his mental capabilities, with the result that it often takes a week to swear in a jury of twelve.

Vacations among business men are seldom taken advantage of. The proudest boast of an American merchant is that he has never missed a day at his desk for ten years. If you remonstrate with him, he will tell you that "he is out for the dollar and all there is in it," whatever that may signify.

On public holidays, such as the 4th of July, fire crackers and toy cannons exterminate small boys and their equally silly fathers by the thousands. In the seven bloodiest battles of the war against Great Britain, 4,119 American soldiers were killed and wounded. During the last seven years the total of slain and maimed on the 4th of July totals 34,603. There is some talk of establishing "a saner Fourth for the future." The worst that usually happens to an Englishman on the first Monday in August is a night in the lock-up.

Police protection in America is a by-word. If you want adequate guardianship of your goods you either employ one of Pinkerton's or from your own police force. While the members of the regular force may possess motor-cars and valuable house property, they do not catch criminals.

Ten thousand persons are murdered each year—shot, strangled, poisoned, stabbed or beaten with a club. Only two in every hundred are punished. Chicago, with a population one-third that of London, had 118 murders in one year, as against twenty in three years in our capital. Seventy-five per cent of the criminals who are arrested in New York for petty larceny and thieving are freed through the intervention of ward politicians.

We have been likened to a nation of shopkeepers—America is the happy hunting ground of the canvassers, and a considerable portion of your time is occupied in turning them down.

There is scarcely an article manufactured for common consumption for the sale of which the makers do not adopt special methods of exploitation. You are induced to purchase more soap than you could possibly use in a life time by reason of the prospect that perchance "The Sangleam Girl" will call at your residence. This young lady is a species of good fairy with gold galore to distribute to sundry purchasers of "Sangleam Soap." Should she visit your domicile, and you are unable to produce the necessary number of soap wrappers, you go without the five-dollar gold piece.

At your office there enters a plausible gentleman, who would fain persuade you to join a "suit club"—you pay so much a week with fifty equally guillible, and if the enterprise is in existence long enough you receive a suit of clothes. Possibly you evade this attack, only to fall victim to the man who will politely infer that you are losing thousands of dollars by neglecting to take "modern methods." You might as well seek to suspend a cyclone as to stop the tide of his eloquence. The firm he represents has supplied him with a typewritten oration, which he has to get out of his system.

On your return home you will be lucky if you find that the hired girl has not been bribed into permitting a sewing machine, mangle, go-cart and piano to be installed on trial during your absence. Our method of selling commodities may lack push, but it is more pleasing to the purchaser.

The tram cars are only capable of seating half as many people as ours by reason of having no outside accommodation. After 6 o'clock they are jammed with a seething mass of humanity, the majority of whom stand in the aisles and preserve

NEWS OF THE RAIL

LEE GLANDON, OF RAYMORE, MO., BOASTS OF UNUSUAL RAIL-ROAD RECORD.

COACH, CAB AND CABOOSE ITEMS

Matters of Interest Picked Up From Various Sources for the Benefit of Democrat-Sentinel Readers.

Among the oldest railroad employees in continuous service on the Missouri Pacific is Lee Glandon, who has been station agent and operator at Raymore, Cass county, Mo., for twenty-eight years.

Mr. Glandon entered the employ of the Missouri Pacific in October, 1870. His first employment was in the State Line yards in Kansas City as night yardman.

In June, 1870, while at his work he met with an accident which caused the loss of half his left foot. He then went to work as a telegraph apprentice in the Kansas City dispatcher's office under W. P. Slocum, a prominent railroad official of that time.

On June 6, 1872, he was sent to Raymore by Superintendent A. W. Dickinson, and has remained there since, during which time he has witnessed more than the usual amount of changes in railway systems and their management.

Promoted While a Patient.

Charles R. Berry, assistant general freight agent of the Chicago Great Western railway, with offices at St. Joseph and at Kansas City, was notified Saturday of the creation of the office of assistant to the first vice president of the road and that he had been selected as the first incumbent. His headquarters will be in St. Joseph.

His authority will be extended over the operating department of the line south of Des Moines, in addition to his duties as a traffic official. Mr. Berry is confined to a local hospital with a broken leg, the result of a fall from a cherry tree at his home. The appointment was a surprise to him.
